For 40 years

Our Mission...

to strengthen American Indian economies to support healthy Native communities. We invest in and create innovative institutions and models that strengthen asset control and support economic development for American Indian people and their communities.
OUR APPROACH

First Nations has always been exclusively committed to Native control of tribal assets and to restore control and promote culturally-compatible stewardship of those assets.

ASSET-BUILDING DEFINED

A positive and collaborative approach, asset-building focuses on cultivating traditional knowledge and practices, and creating new ones to build Native capacities, capabilities and communities.

WHY ASSET-BUILDING WORKS

Native nations are uniquely knowledgeable about their own communities. They know the strengths, challenges and needs of their communities better than outside agencies. It strengthens the effectiveness of Native nations to create solutions to their own challenges and allows them to best leverage their resources on their own terms. In brief, in the long term it works because it helps protect and enhance tribal sovereignty.

ASSETS IN NATIVE COMMUNITIES

- Natural Resources
- Social Capital
- Human Capital
- Political Assets
- Physical Assets
- Languages
- Cultural & Artistic Heritage
The Henry Luce Foundation is a private independent foundation that seeks to enrich public discourse by promoting innovative scholarship, cultivating new leaders, and fostering international understanding. The foundation advances its mission through grantmaking and leadership programs in the fields of Asia, higher education, religion and theology, art and public policy. Established in 1936 by Henry R. Luce, the co-founder and editor-in-chief of Time Inc., the foundation’s earliest work honored his parents, missionary educators in China. The foundation’s programs today reflect the value Mr. Luce placed on learning, leadership, and long-term commitment in philanthropy.
Purpose and Goal
This fellowship is intended to support Native knowledge holders and knowledge makers that embody exceptional creativity, progressive and critical thinking, and the potential to significantly move forward their field in ways that will ultimately lead to broad, transformative impacts for Indigenous communities.

More specifically, the fellowship is designed to support the growth, development, knowledge and networks of Native knowledge holders and knowledge makers.

This fellowship is open to both emerging and experienced leaders from a wide range of field. Applicants for the 2021 cohort:
• Ranged in age from early 20s to 90s.
• Represented more than 150 tribal communities, 40 states and the District of Columbia.
• Represented a broad range of areas including food, language, traditional art, literature, religion/spirituality, philosophy/epistemology, and more.
Fellowship History

This fellowship program officially launched in 2019 and the first cohort was awarded in 2020. The second cohort recently began their fellowship period on May 1, 2021.

History to Date

- March 2019: Inaugural Advisory Committee convened to discuss and define fellowship goals, intent, and selection process.
- June 2019: First application launched as a single-stage application. Over 550 applicants applied for the inaugural fellowship cohort.
- January 2020: First fellow cohort begins. Fellows in this cohort are in the middle of their second year continuing support.
- September 2020: Second cohort application launched as a two-stage application. Over 450 applicants applied.
- May 2021: Second fellow cohort begins. Fellowship period to conclude April 30, 2023.
- June 2021: Third cohort application launched.
First Nations is guided by an Indigenous Advisory Committee who provides guidance and recommendations during the fellowship selection process.

- Advisory committee members are selected based on their deep experience within Indian Country, Indigenous knowledge fields and expertise, and experience as (or working with) Native knowledge holders and knowledge makers.
- Similar to the fellowship cohort, the Advisory Committee also represents a diversity of tribes and knowledge areas.

Candidates must be actively engaged in the creation, dissemination and/or perpetuation of Indigenous and/or Western knowledge. They must have a cultural grounding and connectedness to community.

Candidates must be engaged in relevant work that seeks to grow and advance knowledge. They must demonstrate a record of success of working and collaborating with Indigenous people and communities, and preserving and perpetuating Indigenous knowledge systems.

Candidates must demonstrate continuing promise in their field of endeavor. They must embody exceptional creativity, progressive and critical thinking, and the potential to significantly move forward their field in ways that will ultimately lead to broad, transformative impacts for Indigenous peoples.

Candidates must clearly articulate how the fellowship will support or accelerate their work. They must develop a unique plan of action that details their vision for preserving and perpetuating Indigenous knowledge in either reservation and/or urban community settings.
2022 Fellowship Experience

Fellowship Award
- The fellowship period is January 1, 2022 to December 31, 2023.
- The $75,000 award is released in several installments throughout the fellowship period.

Fellow Work
- Fellows will work in their respective knowledge fields and communities toward their overarching vision and goals.

Cohort Convenings
- Three 2-day convenings will be held and designed in collaboration with fellows during the course of the first fellowship year.
- Intent is to create a collaborative cohort of connected Indigenous knowledge holders to advance Indigenous knowledge and knowledge systems for community benefit.

Capacity-Building Support
- Fellows have access to $5,000 in additional support for resources or professional development to grow their capacity as knowledge holders and knowledge makers.
Use of Fellowship Funds

• The goal of this fellowship is to provide flexible funding. It is intended to allow emerging and experienced knowledge holders and knowledge makers to determine their own goals, and decide how their funds are best used to make a positive impact in their communities.

• Applicants do not have to design or complete a project to be eligible or selected.

• Generally, the fellowship may be used for a wide range of costs including: living expenses, tuition, conference registration, equipment, travel and childcare, etc.

• The fellowship cannot be redirected to another person or organization.

• The fellowship funds are considered taxable income. Fellowship recipients are responsible for all related taxes resulting from this award.
Fellowship Eligibility

A member of an Indigenous community (i.e. Native American, Alaska Native, Native Hawaiian)

Actively engaged in the creation, dissemination or perpetuation of knowledge in your field

Have experience or expertise within the knowledge area being pursued

18 years of age or older

U.S. citizen or permanent resident

Note: Applicants may self-apply or individuals may nominate others for the fellowship
Nominating an Individual

• You will use the same online application form as those who self-apply.
• Nominators should work collaboratively with the individual you are nominating.
• Nominees must fill out a Consent Form indicating they have granted permission for the application to be submitted and that they agree to the terms of the fellowship program.
  • Consent Form must be attached to the submitted application to be considered complete.
  • This form is available on the RFP page and within the online application in the Attachments Tab.
Two-Stage Application Process

This application process is a two-stage competitive process. First Nations typically uses a two-stage process when a high volume of applications are anticipated.

1. Stage 1 Application Form – Due July 13
   Consists of: 1) Applicant contact information, 2) two brief essays, and 3) resume/CV attachment
   Additional information required for nominations: Nominator’s contact info, Consent Form

2. Stage 2 Application Form – up to 100 Stage 1 applicants will be invited to submit a Stage 2 proposal
